Mineraalien ja metallien sekä vaihtoehtoisten energia ja teollisuusvesien B.4b Merkittävimkäsittelyn ratkaisujen keskipitkän ja pitkän aikavälin markkinanäkymät ovat mät megatrendien vaikutuksesta myönteiset. Mineraalien ja metallinjalostuksessa mahdolliset tarvitaan uusia investointeja, sillä nykyinen tuotantokapasiteetti ja meneillään tiedossa olevat olevat investoinnit uuteen kapasiteettiin eivät riitä kattamaan metallien pitkän suuntaukset aikavälin kysyntää. Lisäksi malmien heikentyvät metallipitoisuudet ja yhä haastavammat malmiot edellyttävät lisäkapasiteettia sekä investointeja edistyksellisiin teknologioihin, jotta metallien saanti on riittävää. Kiristyvät ympäristösäännökset, lisääntyvät energiatehokkuuden vaatimukset ja vesipula lisäävät investointeja kestävän kehityksen mahdollistaviin teknologioihin. Yleisesti ottaen teollisuudessa yritykset kiinnittävät yhä enemmän huomiota tuotannon yhteiskunnallisiin ja ympäristövaikutuksiin, mikä lisää kestävän kehityksen teknologioiden kysyntää. Kaiken kaikkiaan nämä suuntaukset lisäävät Outotecin elinkaariratkaisujen kysyntää, koska ne tarjoavat parhaan tuoton asiakkaan investoinnille ennakoitavissa olevin kustannuksin, aikatauluin ja suorituskyvyin, siten pienentäen investoinnin kokonaisriskiä. ⁽¹⁾ Outotec on ottanut 1.1.2013 alkaen käyttöön muutetun "IAS 19 Työsuhde-etuudet" -standardin. Outotecin taloudellinen raportointi 30.6.2013 päättyneeltä kuuden kuukauden jaksolta on laadittu edellä mainittujen muutosten mukaisesti. Taloudelliset tiedot 31.12.2012 päättyneeltä tilikaudelta on päivitetty vastaavasti. Oikaistuja konsernitilinpäätöstietoja 31.12.2012 päättyneeltä tilikaudelta ei ole tilintarkastettu. Outotecin 31.12.2012 päättyneeltä tilikaudelta laadittu tilintarkastettu konsernitilinpäätös, jossa muutettua "IAS 19 Työsuhde-etuudet"standardia ei ole otettu käyttöön, on sisällytetty tähän Esitteeseen viittaamalla (katso "Information Incorporated by Reference"). Standardin merkittävin muutos koskee etuuspohjaisten eläkevastuiden ja -saamisten laskentaa. Muutos edellyttää, että etuuspohjaisten eläkevastuiden ja -saamisten käyvän arvon muutokset kirjataan niiden syntyhetkellä. Standardimuutos poistaa edellisen IAS 19 standardin salliman ns. putkimenetelmän käytön mahdollisuuden ja nopeuttaa takautuvien kulujen kirjaamista. Standardimuutokset vaativat kaikkien vakuutusmatemaattisten voittojen ja tappioiden kirjaamisen välittömästi muihin laajan tuloksen eriin, jolloin kirjatut eläkevastuusaamiset tai -velat vastaavat eläkejärjestelmän koko arvon ali- tai ylijäämää. Tulosvaikutteisesti kirjattavat kulut rajoittuvat nykyisiin ja menneisiin palvelukustannuksiin, maksujen voittoihin ja tappioihin sekä korkotuloon (-menoon).

Alla olevaan taulukkoon on koottu muutoksen vaikutukset kesäkuun 2012 ja joulukuun 2012 tilinpäätöksiin.

B.4b	Known trends	The mid-to-long term market outlook for minerals and metals - as well as affecting the	the alternative energy and industrial water treatment - is positive, due to the Issuer and the	favorable global megatrends. In minerals and metals processing, new
	Issuer's	investments are needed, as current production capacity and ongoing industries	investments in new capacity are not sufficient to fulfill long-term demand. In mustries	addition, declining ore grades and more complex ores require investments in capacity and advanced technology to enable sufficient recovery of metals.
		Tightening environmental regulations, increasing energy efficiency requirements, and the scarcity of fresh water also increase the need for sustainable technology. All in all, industrial companies are increasingly focusing on the social and environmental impacts of their operations and thus increasing the demand for sustainable processing technologies. These trends create favorable opportunities for Outotec's life cycle solutions, which provide the best return on the customer's investment with predictable cost, time to market, and process performance reducing the overall risks of the investment.

⁽¹⁾ As of 1 January 2013, Outotec has adopted the revised standard "IAS 19 – Employee Benefits". Outotec's financial reporting as at and for the six months ended 30 June 2013 is in line with these changes. Financial information as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012 has been restated accordingly. The restated consolidated financial information as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012 has not been audited. The audited consolidated financial statements of Outotec as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012, in which the revised standard "IAS 19 - Employee Benefits" has not been adopted have been incorporated into this Prospectus by reference (see "Information Incorporated by Reference"). The most significant changes relate to the accounting for defined benefit obligations and plan assets. The amendments require the recognition of changes in benefit obligations and in fair value of plan assets when they occur, and hence eliminate the corridor approach permitted under the previous version of IAS 19 and accelerate the recognition of past service costs. The amendments require all actuarial gains and losses to be recognized immediately through other comprehensive income in order for the net pension asset or liability recognized in the consolidated statement of financial position to reflect the full value of the plan deficit or surplus. Amounts recorded in profit or loss are limited to current and past service costs, gains or losses on settlements, and net interest income (expense).

The below table summarizes the effects in the June 2012 and December 2012 financial statements.

RISK FACTORS

Investors considering investment in the Notes should carefully review the information contained in this Prospectus and, in particular, the risk factors described below and in the stock exchange releases to be published by the Issuer after the Listing. Factors possibly affecting the investment decision are also discussed elsewhere in this Prospectus. Should one or more of the risks described herein, or any other risk, materialise, it may have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition, results of operations and future prospects and, thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes. As a result, investors may lose part or all of their investments. The following description is a summary of certain risk factors that may affect the Issuer's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Notes or that are material in order to assess the market risk associated with the Notes. This description is based on the information known and assessed at the time of preparing this Prospectus, and, therefore, the description of the risk factors is not necessarily exhaustive. The risks involved in an investment in the Notes are not limited to those identified below and the sequence in which the following risk factors are listed is not an indication of their likelihood to occur or of the extent of their commercial consequences. All investors should make their own evaluations of the risks associated with an investment in the Notes and consult with their own professional advisers if they consider it necessary.

Risks related to the Issuer's business environment

Mining and metallurgical industries are cyclical which could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec's customers operate primarily in the mining and metallurgical industries and in geographical areas which are in different stages of the economic cycle.

The market for technology providers for the mining and metallurgical industries is primarily driven by the overall investment activity in these industries and the global GDP growth, underlying global consumption of metals, the balance or imbalance of metals supply and demand, the capacity utilization rate and metal prices. The cyclical nature of Outotec's sales is therefore driven primarily by the changes in the global supply and demand related to metals and the capital expenditure of the mining and metallurgical industries. If the demand for metals decreases significantly particularly in developing economies such as China, India, Brazil, and the CIS countries, reduction in the demand for Outotec's products and services is possible. Outotec's management believes that, in the long-term, the effects of economical cycles may be somewhat reduced by the geographical diversity of Outotec's operations and the variety of different minerals and metals on which its business is focused. In order to be less dependent on the cycles of the mining and metals industries, Outotec has significantly strengthened its services offering and has successfully pursued opportunities to sell its technologies to other process industries such as the fertilizer industry, energy and industrial water treatment as well as acquired new businesses and technologies for these new areas. Customer's investments in environmental and energy-efficiency technology solutions are also increasing.

Outotec's services business comprising different plant and expert services is not completely immune to the effects of economic cycles either, although Outotec's large number of delivered plants is a good foundation for growing the services business. If the situation of the global economy becomes weaker, customers may reduce their purchases of services. A decline in demand for Outotec's technologies and services as a result of general economic conditions, volatility in metals demand and prices or other factors may have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Competitive environment and changes in customer requirements could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec operates in a highly competitive business environment and it is possible that the competition might become even fiercer as a result of new market entrants. If Outotec's competitors introduce new technologies or pricing policies to the markets, or if new standards or practices emerge, Outotec's existing technologies and services may become uncompetitive or obsolete.

In addition, the market for Outotec's technology and services could be affected by increased use of plastics and other materials substituting the metals produced with Outotec's technologies. The future success of Outotec will depend on its ability to enhance its technologies and services, address the increasingly diverse needs of its customers, stay in the frontline of technological advances and conduct its business on a cost-effective and timely basis. Outotec's failure to anticipate or quickly respond to technological developments or changes in the requirements of its customers, could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Some of Outotec's competitors have significantly more own production than Outotec. The weakened market situation may lead to aggressive pricing practices as these companies strive to increase the utilization rate of their production capacity, which may have an adverse effect on Outotec's competitiveness.

Industry consolidation among the Issuer's customer base and competitors could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec's customer base has consolidated. Future consolidation within Outotec's customer industries could affect Outotec's relationships with its customers. If one of Outotec's competitors' customers acquired any of Outotec's customers, Outotec may lose a part of its business. Additionally, as the size of Outotec's customers increases in connection with the industry consolidation, they could exert increased bargaining power on all suppliers, including Outotec.

In addition, some of Outotec competitors have merged. As the competitors consolidate, they may increase their market share, gain economies of scale that enhance their ability to compete with Outotec and/or acquire additional technologies and products that could displace Outotec's technologies and services. There is no assurance that further consolidation within Outotec competitors and/or customer industries would not have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Furthermore, it is possible that consolidation of customers leads to calls for tenders for even larger projects than those handled today. Risks related to extensive projects are described in the section "Risks Related to the Issuer's Business – Ability to Complete Large and Complex Customer Projects".

The Issuer is subjected to seasonality and fluctuations in earnings

Demand for certain of Outotec's technologies and services is subject to seasonality, which is reflected in Outotec's revenue stream. The seasonality is mainly due to the fact that the time of delivery, especially in the Minerals Processing business area (before 1 July 2013, Non-ferrous Solutions business area), is often less than one year and the customers expect project completion by the end of the year. Typically, Outotec's sales and profitability are higher during the third and fourth quarter as compared to the first and the second quarter of the financial year. However, there can be no assurance that the pattern of seasonality will continue in the same manner in the future.

According to Outotec's revenue recognition principles, a certain portion of sales and especially profits are recognized in the end of the project only after, among others, plant test runs and customer's acceptance of the delivery. Outotec cannot generally control the timing of these procedures and, depending on the timing and the remaining provisions, the completion of projects may cause significant fluctuations in Outotec's quarterly or annual results.

Political, economic and other uncertainties could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec's business operations are subject to various political, economic and social conditions which include fair or unfair calling of commercial bank guarantees, nationalization of assets, social, political or economic instability, volatility in currency exchange rates or restrictions on repatriation of profits or transfers of cash or suspension or cancellation of projects by governmental authorities, which all could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Operations in emerging markets may present risks that are not encountered in countries with well-established economic and political systems, including economic instability and a potential difficulty to anticipate future business conditions in these markets. These market conditions, which can change rapidly, may cause delays in the placement of orders for projects that have already been awarded, thereby subjecting Outotec to volatile markets.

Some of Outotec's projects are carried out in regions that could be affected by epidemics, natural disasters, armed conflicts or terrorist attacks. There is no assurance that Outotec's exposure to such conditions would not have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer may face risks related to regulatory changes and foreign legal and tax systems that could adversely affect the Issuer

Certain countries in which Outotec operates may have less developed legal systems and less strict legal enforcement mechanisms than industrialized countries with more developed economies. This may result in risks such as effective and available legal redress offered by the courts of such jurisdictions, whether in respect of a breach of law or regulation or in an ownership dispute, being more difficult to obtain, a higher degree of discretion on the part of governmental authorities, the lack of judicial or administrative guidance on interpreting applicable rules and regulations, inconsistencies or conflicts between and within various laws, regulations and decrees, or relative inexperience of the judiciary and courts in such matters. Also, the protection of intellectual property rights may be less developed and less strictly enforced in these countries.

There is no assurance that Outotec or its joint ventures or their licenses, license applications or other legal arrangements or the effectiveness of the enforcement thereof will not be adversely affected by the actions of government authorities or other parties. Outotec's operations also expose it to changes in foreign regulations. The imposition of adverse new legislation or unexpected taxes or other payments on revenues in these markets or the introduction of exchange controls as well as other restrictions by foreign governments could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

In addition, the operations of Outotec as well as its customers, subcontractors and consortium partners are subject to extensive environmental protection laws, which may be subject to change. Outotec may be subject to liabilities for, among other things, environmental contamination, if Outotec, its customers or subcontractors do not comply with laws regulating, for example, hazardous substances, and such liabilities can be substantial. Further, some of the financing received or applied for by Outotec or its customers may be conditional upon or subject to covenants relating to compliance with relevant environmental laws and regulations.

Outotec operations are globally networked together and individual projects are serviced by group's operations in several countries. This may increase risks relating to import and export duties and other indirect and direct tax rulings. Outotec's projects may require establishing a permanent tax residence in the project execution country. The interpretation of tax residence may change and this could result in additional taxes payable. The consistence of interpretation of tax rulings could vary in many countries where Outotec operates and this could result in unexpected taxes.

Outotec's failure to comply with applicable laws and regulations could also give rise to damage to Outotec's reputation, which may substantially harm Outotec's business prospects and which could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Labor disputes and adverse employee relations could interfere with the Issuer's operations

Some of Outotec's principal domestic and foreign operations and subcontractors are located in areas of high union concentration or in jurisdictions with laws favorable to unionization. There can be no assurance that any disputes, work stoppages or strikes will not arise in the future. In addition, many of Outotec's customer projects may be located in highly unionized countries and such customer projects are susceptible to strikes or other organized union activity that may be caused by factors outside Outotec's control. Even though there have been no major labor disputes in the history of Outotec, there can be no assurance that such disputes which could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes, would not arise in the future.

Risks related to the Issuer's business

Uncertainty related to awarded deliveries and commencement of projects could adversely affect the Issuer

Many of Outotec's contracts are awarded following a competitive bidding process. Outotec may expend significant resources, both in management time and in financial resources, on bidding for projects that it is not subsequently awarded. In addition, Outotec has a number of projects for which there are signed contracts in place but the effectiveness of which is subject to various conditions relating to, among other things, advance payments or regulatory permits, and the fulfillment of such conditions may be outside the control of Outotec and/or its customers. It is possible, for example, that Outotec's customer does not pay a required advance payment due to lack of financial resources or the customer may be delaying the payment for other reasons. The customer may also not necessarily have the required environmental permits in place, which may suspend the commencement of a project. Outotec is also dependent on the content of feed material provided by its customers in order to select and design the optimum process and describe parameters for given performance guarantees. The ability of Outotec or its customers to fulfill such conditions and to convert signed agreements into completed projects cannot be guaranteed and, therefore, Outotec's order backlog only includes projects for which all such conditions have been fulfilled.

Outotec possesses certain technologies that produce license fee income. Lack of deliveries of such technologies reduces the amount of license fee income and subsequently the gross margin. Uncertainties described above related to the awarding of deliveries and commencement of projects may, if effected, have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer could be adversely affected by cost overruns due to fixed price contracts

Outotec has fixed price contracts, according to which Outotec is obliged to construct a plant or supply processing equipment for a fixed price operating according to the agreed specifications. Under a partially fixed price contract, the parties agree upfront on the elements of the project for which the costs are fixed and those for which costs will be reimbursed by the customer. Outotec aims to carefully estimate the costs associated with each of its projects. It also makes allowances for unexpected contingencies and thereto related costs that may arise in connection with a given project. However, cost overruns can occur as a result of the inherent risks of the construction of a facility or the supply of equipment. Such cost overruns can be significant and, particularly in case of fixed price contracts, may result in substantial losses to Outotec, thus having a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer could face risks related to delays, suspension, termination and alteration of contracts that could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec's projects and other business operations may be subject to suspension or termination of contracts when Outotec has already committed to costs in relation to the project. Although under such circumstances

Outotec is typically compensated for its direct costs and expenses, customers may not be liable to compensate for any loss of profit caused by such suspension or termination.

In some of Outotec's contracts there are no explicit restrictions on the customer's ability to assign the rights arising under the contract to third parties. Thus Outotec cannot be certain of the solvency of the customer which has become a party to the contract due to an assignment. Outotec's customer contracts may also permit the customer to vary the agreed scope of work subject to a change order mechanism. Outotec strives to observe the variations in the change order mechanism in its contracts. However, Outotec may, on occasion, be required to renegotiate the terms or scope of such contracts, which may result in the imposition of terms less favorable for Outotec than the previous terms.

Suspensions or premature termination of customer contracts, liabilities and costs arising from delayed or cancelled projects, unfavorable terms in renegotiated contracts, obligations realized as a result of performance guarantees, joint and several liability obligations and liability transfer prohibitions could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes .

The Issuer is dependent on external suppliers and information systems which could adversely affect the Issuer

During the course of its customer projects Outotec is dependent on the availability of certain key raw materials, components and finished products as well as the availability of services of outside contractors, business partners and employees. Moreover, Outotec is dependent upon the ability of its suppliers to provide such raw materials, components, finished products and services that meet the specifications, quality standards, delivery schedules and estimated costs set forth by Outotec as well as regulatory requirements. In some cases there are only a limited number of suitable suppliers available for certain products or services, which increases Outotec's dependence on external parties over which it has no control. Outotec also needs to procure the key raw materials, components, finished products and services at competitive prices from its suppliers and a challenging business environment may impact the payment terms of the suppliers. Although Outotec strives to uphold a broad supplier network in order to reduce the risks arising from individual suppliers' potential difficulties, such difficulties could adversely affect production schedules and Outotec's reputation, which could have a material adverse effect on Outotec business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Information technology is significant to Outotec's business operations and Outotec's operations are to a large extent based on technologies and know-how developed by the Company itself. The amounts invested in information systems are substantial and should the benefits strived for through such investments not materialize, the Company may have to write off part of the investments. The management and protection as well as the development of the information systems thus constitute a material part of Outotec's business. Outotec is not aware of any material issues which would threaten Outotec's information systems and solutions. However, a part of Outotec's information system services are offered by other companies due to which these services are exposed to risks connected with the availability of such services. The implementation of substituting services in a situation where the availability of the service provided by a third party is interrupted can take time and cause interruptions to the business, which could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and result of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer may face risks related to its ability to complete large and complex customer projects

As the projects and services underlying Outotec's contracts are often international, large, complex and of high value, Outotec's sales may at times depend on a limited number of large projects. When purchasing a plant as a turnkey delivery the customer can give a clearer total liability to one supplier. In a large scale project the end result may in this way be easier for the customer to foresee and acquiring financing for the project may be easier. The consolidation of customer companies into even larger entities may also lead to a further widening of the scope of Outotec's deliveries. It is, nevertheless, possible that Outotec will have to decline a large turnkey delivery, should this delivery form too large a portion of Outotec's order backlog and the risk of carrying out the project grow to be too significant.

The success of Outotec to complete its projects is largely dependent on its ability to assign an appropriate number of qualified personnel to each project. It is also customary that Outotec gives its customers performance guarantees related to projects or delivered solutions and services. Under certain contracts, Outotec may be held liable for certain events relating to the implementation of such contracts even when the occurrence of these events is beyond the control of Outotec. Should Outotec, for instance due to a designing error or due to a reason dependent on its products or employees, fail in its project implementation, this may also, in the short run, have a significant effect on Outotec's possibilities of getting corresponding orders from its customers in the future. A failure to implement or complete a major customer project by Outotec could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes .

The predictability of the Issuer's earnings based on its order backlog may vary Outotec reports its order backlog in connection with its annual reports and interim reports. During the six months ended on 30 June 2013, Outotec's order intake amounted to EUR 856.7 million, and Outotec's order backlog was EUR 1,761.3 million as at 30 June 2013. The order backlog, that includes only projects for which the conditions determining the entry into force of the order have been fulfilled, usually extends over several financial years, and its composition and potential impact on profitability may vary over time depending on the nature and pricing of projects included in the order backlog. The order backlog may not necessarily be fully indicative of Outotec's future sales or earnings. Suspensions and delays are not uncommon with respect to contracts in Outotec's backlog, and contracts are occasionally cancelled. In case Outotec experiences significant suspensions, delays or cancellations of contracts in its order backlog, this could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer could face professional liability for engineering defects or environmental matters

In case of an accident or injury resulting from equipment or structures related to the engineering services provided by Outotec or failure in such equipment or structures, a claim for an engineering design defect brought against the owner or operator of the equipment can also result in a claim against Outotec. In certain jurisdictions where Outotec operates, environmental and workers' compensation liability may be assigned to Outotec as a matter of law. For example in situations of right of recourse, customers, subcontractors and potential consortium partners may not have adequate financial resources to meet their indemnity obligations, if any, towards Outotec. It is also possible, that claims relating to product liability are presented against Outotec. Outotec seeks to ensure, to the extent possible, that it has sufficient insurance coverage against potential product liability risks.

Despite thorough advance risk management processes, losses may derive from risks not necessarily addressed in Outotec's indemnity agreements or insurance policies, and it may not necessarily be possible for Outotec to obtain adequate insurance against all risks on commercially reasonable terms. Engineering services supplied by Outotec are also subject to the hazards inherent in providing construction services, including, for example, fire, explosion or various natural phenomena. These hazards can cause personal injury and loss of life, business interruptions, property damage, equipment failure, pollution and environmental damage. Failure to effectively cover Outotec against risks caused by any of the above reasons could expose Outotec to substantial costs and that could potentially lead to material losses, which could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Any failures in the Issuer's business development, integration of acquired businesses or implementing the new business structure could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec seeks to take into account in its planning and business operations the opportunities to develop or acquire new technologies, solutions or services for the use of Outotec's existing customers or served industries, and the opportunities to apply its existing technologies for new purposes or in new industries. The long-term development of Outotec's business is affected by business development risks that are related to correctness of market intelligence or unanticipated changes in market conditions, research and development activities and commercialization of technologies. Failure to develop new competitive technologies could result in uncompetitive offering portfolio and reduce the Company's sales. The development and commercialization of new technologies may also take a long time and involve risks related to Outotec's brand and market position.

Investments made during the development phase of new technologies may also need to be written off in connection with larger product development projects, in which such investments may have been capitalized, in the event the intended technical and/or financial objectives of such projects are not reached. This could have material adverse effect on Outotec's financial performance. Additionally, business development risks include risks related to the customer industries, such as the supply and availability of metals, minerals and energy. The continuing development of Outotec's personnel is critical for Outotec's business development. Risks related to business development also include corporate acquisitions and risks relating to the integration of the acquired companies and businesses.

As of 1 July 2013 Outotec has changed its corporate operating model and business structure in order to accelerate Outotec's transformation into a full life cycle solutions provider and to enhance value creation for customers and shareholders. These changes aim to promote continuous profitable growth in line with the Company's long term financial targets. However, there are no guarantees that Outotec will be successful in implementing the transformation process as planned and thus to achieve the planned benefits of the new business structure.

While Outotec's management believes that Outotec's business development procedures are appropriate in the current circumstances, there can be no assurance that such procedures are successful. Any failure in Outotec's business development, integration of acquired businesses or implementing the new business structure could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Loss of or inability to attract professional management and key personnel and legal risks relating to fraudulent actions could adversely affect the Issuer

Outotec's ability to continue to maintain and grow its business and to provide high-quality technologies and services will depend, to a large extent, upon its ability to retain, develop, train and motivate the management and other experts in its service as well as to hire qualified and experienced new personnel. Competition for qualified personnel is intense at all areas in which Outotec operates and may become increasingly intense in the future. The termination of the employment relationship of any member of Outotec's management or other key employees or the inability of Outotec to attract and retain sufficiently qualified personnel as well as inability to empower personnel to focus on customers' needs to achieve Outotec's global and local goals could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Fraudulent acts like misconduct and crime by any of Outotec's employees or other parties could also have a material adverse effect on Outotec despite Outotec's efforts to prevent such action through the development and implementation of compliance and fraud programs, code of conduct and related policies.

Inability to use and protect the intellectual property rights related to Outotec's operations could adversely affect the Issuer

Intellectual property rights ("IPR") are a key element of Outotec's business. All types of IPRs are considered to be important business assets for the Company. Persons belonging to IPR Management, a part of Outotec's Technology management function, are responsible for applying and maintaining patents, registering and maintaining trademarks, managing inventions, coordinating outside patent counsels, remitting payments and assisting in IPR disputes. In addition to the ownership of numerous patents, patent applications, utility models, trademarks and internet domain names, Outotec is also a proprietor of other officially registered IPRs and non-registered rights such as trade secrets, copyrights, and agreements.

Outotec's investment in IPR management aims at creating competitive advantage. The goal is to protect Outotec's technologies and products in their main market areas and in market segments where patents are an important part of the business. Competitive advantage is also supported by active follow-up on competitors' IPR activities and competing technologies. Outotec protects the rights relating to inventions, products, technologies, and R&D results against competitors' hostile activities, to prevent infringements and to promote Outotec's image as an innovative company.

Outotec's success is largely based on the solutions and services it has developed or acquired and continues to develop or acquire, and related IPRs which Outotec owns in whole or in part. In addition, Outotec is to some extent dependent on certain other companies as it uses technologies licensed by these companies and thereby is subject to risks relating to, among others, the validity of such licensing arrangements. Outotec is also to some extent dependent on certain IPRs owned by some of its subcontractors.

Outotec employs an advanced IPR protection process and relies principally on patents (including patent applications), nondisclosure agreements and other contractual arrangements and, to a lesser extent, trademark laws, to protect its IPRs. There are currently no significant outstanding infringement claims against Outotec. Outotec is not aware of any significant threatened infringement claims or similar proceedings. Despite the aforementioned, a successful intellectual property rights infringement claim or other similar proceeding against Outotec or the inability of Outotec to protect its proprietary information and enforce its IPRs through infringement proceedings could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The insurance coverage taken out by the Issuer may turn out to be insufficient in certain situations

Outotec acquires insurances covering all or part of the group companies' insurance needs, depending on the type of insurance. Furthermore, the group companies acquire local insurances on a case-by-case basis in separately defined areas and as part of specific delivery contracts. General liability insurance is the most important type of insurance and a significant part of insurance premiums paid annually relate to risks covered by such insurance. Outotec has property damage and business interruption insurance cover on areas where it has productive activities, which, according the view of the management, is considered adequate. Other key insurance types include credit risks which are insured on a case-by-case advance assessment.

Although Outotec believes that it carries adequate insurance with respect to its operations and that said insurance coverage corresponds to the general industry practice, under certain circumstances Outotec's insurance may not necessarily cover at all or adequately cover the direct or indirect consequences of occurrences related to the operations of the Company. It may be that insurance coverage is not necessarily available for each of the risks faced by Outotec. In addition, Outotec's insurance policies may be subject to deductibles or franchises, as the case may be, and possible remedial requirements that affect the final amount of possible insurance indemnities. Although it has been Outotec's policy to cover the risks relating to its operations through contractual limitations of liability, indemnities and insurances, they may not always give sufficient economic safety against the risks.

Outotec may, following a cost-benefit analysis, elect to not insure certain risks on the grounds that the amount of premium payable, terms of insurance or deductibles are excessive or otherwise unfair when compared to the potential benefit to Outotec from the insurance coverage. In addition, there is a risk that insurance premiums may increase to such a high level or the insurance policies change so materially that Outotec considers them inappropriate or not in its interests to maintain insurance coverage at its existing level. Potential insufficiencies in Outotec's insurance coverage could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer could become liable for environmental or other damage relating to its projects and project sites

Outotec's plant deliveries may carry a supplier liability, which generally terminates at a certain time after the construction and commissioning of a plant. During the construction and commissioning there may occur accidents involving environmental damage or personal injury, and litigation arising from such accidents may result in Outotec being named a defendant in lawsuits asserting potentially large claims. Severe damage to human health, the environment or property or disruption in production could also be caused by accidents on a site where Outotec has delivered a plant. Such accidents could result in lawsuits towards Outotec as a technology provider, which, in turn, could lead to significant liabilities. There can be no assurance that an accident and/or environmental damage occurring during project execution or later at a project site will not result in claims against and result in liabilities on the part of Outotec for the accident and/or damage in question, which could, in turn, have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Financial risks

The following describes the most significant financial risks in Outotec's business. Financial risks are divided into market, credit and liquidity risks. The market risks which are the most relevant to Outotec result from changes in currency and interest rates.

The Issuer may be exposed to foreign exchange rate risks

Foreign exchange rate risk is the result of the price changes between different currencies. The risk may be reflected for example as a change in the value of the cash flows or balance sheet items that are in a currency other than the domestic currency of the Company. The Company exposes itself to the risk if the items in question are not hedged. Currency risks are Outotec's greatest market risk and they may also have a significant effect on the profit, cash flow and balance sheet of Outotec.

The Issuer's operations involve interest rate risks

An interest rate risk is the result of the effect of changes in interest rates on the value of financing instruments or their profits and expenses. Outotec disperses its loans in fixed and floating rate instruments and total interest rate risk position is stabilized by changing the portion of fixed and foreign currency denominated debts.

Additionally, Outotec may use interest rate derivative instruments to control interest rate risks. The total nominal value of interest rate swaps was EUR 40 million on 30 June 2013 (30 June 2012: no interest rate swaps). The purpose of this derivative is to swap floating interest rate exposure of a term loan into fixed rate.

A significant part of the financial investments have short-term interest rate as a reference rate. On 30 June 2013 Outotec had EUR 293.7 million of cash and cash equivalent funds (30 June 2012: EUR 393.7 million), majority of which is invested in short-term money market instruments. The advance payments received from projects in the emerging markets and the related financial investments occasionally cause interest rate risks.

The Issuer may be exposed to risks regarding the availability and cost of financing

Uncertainty in the financial market may mean that the price of the financing needed in order to carry out Outotec's business will increase and that it may not be as readily available as previously. Adverse development in the credit markets and tightening regulation of the banks, as well as other adverse future developments in the financial markets, may negatively impact Outotec's ability to raise additional funds as well as the costs and other terms of funding. The failure to obtain sufficient funding for operations or increased costs or unfavourable terms of financing could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Outotec is also dependent on availability of other financial facilities, including but not limited to commercial guarantee and foreign exchange credit lines in order to operate and grow successfully. Unavailability of these credit lines could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

An increasing number of Outotec's customers have requested export credits for their projects and their demand has increased based on the total value of export guarantee applications related to Outotec's sales projects. Potential export credit restrictions may even further complicate and lengthen sales negotiations with customers and the effectiveness of deliveries. Also other restrictions in the availability of financing and changes to scopes and prices of projects in the offer stage may have a corresponding effect on the launching and completion of customer projects.

The Issuer may be exposed to credit (default) risks

Credit risk arises from the potential failure of a counterparty to meet its payment obligations. Credit risks can be further divided into country risk and counterparty risk. Outotec may be exposed to credit risks through sales contracts and other business (for example, trade receivables and other receivables), but also through money market investments and hedging instruments.

Outotec's projects and other business operations are subject to default risks arising from or as a result of, for example, non-payment of customers, suspension of contracts or termination of contracts when Outotec has already committed to costs in relation to the project, unjustifiable calling of on-demand commercial bank guarantees provided in connection with similar projects and non-performance of suppliers. In addition, default risks or counterparty risks arise in conjunction with cash investments and hedging instruments entered into in connection with projects. Some of Outotec's customer contracts may, subject to certain terms being met, be suspended or terminated at the decision and notification of the customer at any time. The materialization of any such risks could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Potential future impairments of goodwill could have material adverse effect on the Issuer

Substantial amount of Outotec's assets are in goodwill and intangible assets. The total value of intangible assets on 30 June 2013 was EUR 333.8 million (30 June 2012: EUR 305.1 million). There is a risk that due to for example weaker business outlook and market conditions Outotec may have to make asset impairments which depending on the amount impaired, could have a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

The Issuer's operations involve liquidity risks

Liquidity risks are related to the availability of cash instruments to meet financial obligations. Outotec's liquidity is created through a combined effect of operative cash flows, disposable liquid assets and credit lines. Outotec seeks to ensure sufficient liquidity through a combination of cash management, liquid investment portfolios, and committed and uncommitted credit facilities.

The main objective of Outotec's financial risk management and related financial risk policy is to mitigate the effect of fluctuations of currency exchange rates and interest rates as well other uncertainties to the profit and to ensure adequate liquidity. As a main principle, Outotec's business units hedge their identified market risks by entering into agreements with the group treasury, which enters into most of the group's third party financial contracts with banks and other financial institutions. All of the asset management investments related to liquidity management are made in liquid money market instruments with, as a starting point, low credit risk and within the limits of preagreed credit limits and maturities. In particular, as regards advance payments of projects, cash reserves may be invested in the local money markets in emerging economies. Any failures in the liquidity management could have a material adverse effect on a material adverse effect on Outotec's business, financial condition and results of operations and future prospects and thereby, on Outotec's ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Risks related to the Notes

The Notes may not be a suitable investment for all investors

Each potential investor in the Notes must determine the suitability of that investment in light of its own circumstances. In particular, each potential investor should:

- (i) have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Notes, the merits and risks of investing in the Notes and the information contained or referred to in the Prospectus;
- (ii) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate, in the context of its particular financial situation, an investment in the Notes and the impact the Notes will have on its overall investment portfolio;
- (iii) have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the Notes; and
- (iv) be able to evaluate (either alone or with the help of a financial adviser) possible scenarios for economic, interest rate and other factors that may affect its investment and its ability to bear the applicable risks.

Investors are exposed to credit risk in respect of the Issuer and may lose their investment in the Notes

Investors in the Notes are exposed to a credit risk in respect of the Issuer. The investor's possibility to receive interest payments and payments of principal under the Notes is thus dependent on the Issuer's ability to fulfill its payment obligations, which in turn is to a large extent dependent on developments in the Issuer's business and the Issuer's financial performance. Should the Issuer become insolvent during the term of Notes, investors may lose interest payable on and the principal amount of the Notes in whole or part.

There is no rating for the Issuer or the Notes

Neither the Issuer nor the Notes are currently rated by any rating agency and the Company does not intend to seek rating for the Notes in the future.

The Notes are not guaranteed or covered by any security

The Notes are not obligations of anyone other than the Issuer and they are not guaranteed by any person or entity. No one other than the Issuer will accept any liability whatsoever in respect of any failure by the Issuer to pay any amount due under the Notes.

The Notes are unsecured debt instruments and the Noteholders would be unsecured creditors in the event of the Issuer's bankruptcy or other insolvency proceeding. Accordingly, the prospects of the Issuer may negatively impact the liquidity and the market price of the Notes and may increase the risk that the Noteholders will not receive prompt and full payment, when due, for interest, principal and/or any other amounts payable to the Noteholders pursuant to the Notes from time to time.

The Notes contain no covenants on the Issuer's financial standing or operations

The Terms and Conditions of the Notes do not contain covenants concerning the Issuer's financial standing or operations except as set forth in Condition 8 "Change of Control", Condition 9 "Negative Pledge" and Condition 10 "Events of Default" of the Terms and Conditions of the Notes, which grant the Noteholders certain rights in certain limited circumstances. The Terms and Conditions of the Notes do not restrict the Issuer's ability to enter into a merger, demerger, asset sale or other significant transaction that could materially alter the Issuer's existence, legal structure of organization or regulatory regime and/or its composition and business. If the Issuer was to enter into such a transaction, Noteholders could be negatively impacted. Furthermore, the Change of Control Condition does not restrict any of the current shareholders of the Issuer from disposing any or all of their shareholdings.

Active trading market for the Notes may not develop

The Notes constitute a new issue of securities and there has been no prior public market for the Notes. Although application will be made to list the Notes on the Helsinki Stock Exchange, there can be no assurance that such application will be approved. Further, even if the listing application is approved, there can be no assurance that a liquid public market for the Notes will develop, and even if such a market were to develop, neither the Issuer nor the Arrangers are under any obligation to maintain such a market. In the absence of a secondary market, Notes may be difficult to sell at a satisfactory market price and the investor should be aware that he may realize a loss upon sale if Notes are sold prior to the Repayment Date. Even if the Notes are listed on an exchange, trading in the Notes will not always take place. Thus, it may be difficult and costly for the holder of the Notes to sell Notes within a short time frame, or at all, and it may be difficult for the holder to obtain a price that is equivalent to the price obtainable for securities that are traded in a liquid secondary market.

The liquidity and the market price for the Notes can be expected to vary with changes in market and economic conditions, the financial condition and prospects of the Issuer and other factors that generally influence the market prices of securities. Such fluctuations may significantly affect the liquidity and the market price of the Notes, which may trade at a discount to the price at which the holder of Notes invested in the Notes.

Since the Notes bear interest at a fixed interest rate, movements in market interest rates can adversely affect the value of the Notes

The Notes bear interest on their outstanding principal amount at a fixed interest rate. A holder of a security with a fixed interest rate is exposed to the risk that the value of such security could fall as a result of changes in the market interest rate. While the nominal compensation rate of a security with a fixed interest rate is fixed during the life of such security or during a certain period of time, the current interest rate on the capital market (market interest rate) typically changes on a daily basis. If the market interest rate increases, the value of such a security typically falls, until the yield of such security is approximately equal to the market interest rate. If the market interest rate falls, the value of a security with a fixed interest rate typically increases, until the yield of such a security is approximately equal to the market interest rate. Consequently, the holders of Notes should be aware that movements of the market interest rate can adversely affect the value of the Notes and can lead to losses for the holders of Notes if they sell their Notes.

The Issuer may issue additional debt and/or grant security

Except as set out in Condition 9 "Negative Pledge" of the Terms and Condition of the Notes, the Issuer is not prohibited from issuing further notes or incurring other debt ranking pari passu or senior to the Notes or restricted from granting any security on any existing or future debts. Such issuance or incurrence of further debt or granting of security may reduce the amount recoverable by the Noteholders upon the winding-up or insolvency of the Issuer.

The Notes carry no voting rights at the Issuer's General Meetings of Shareholders

The Notes carry no voting rights with respect to the general meetings of shareholders of the Issuer. Consequently, in the Issuer's general meetings of shareholders the holders of notes cannot influence any decisions by the Issuer to redeem the Notes or any decisions by the Issuer's shareholders concerning, for instance, the capital structure of the Issuer.

Laws and practices applicable to the Notes may change

The Notes are issued under Finnish law in force on the issue date. Any new statutes, ordinances and regulations, amendments to the legislation or changes in application of the law (including any amendments to or changes in application of tax laws or regulations) after the issue date may affect the Notes and/or have a material adverse effect on the Issuer, which could affect the Issuer's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Notes as well as the market price and value of the Notes.

Legal investment considerations may restrict certain investments

The investment activities of certain investors are subject to legal investment laws and regulations, or review or regulation by certain authorities. Each potential investor should consult its legal advisers to determine whether and to what extent (i) Notes are legal investments for it, (ii) Notes can be used as collateral for various types of borrowing and (iii) other restrictions apply to its purchase or pledge of any Notes. Financial institutions should consult their legal advisers or the appropriate regulators to determine the appropriate treatment of Notes under any applicable risk-based capital or similar rules.

The Issuer may have a right or obligation to redeem and purchase the Notes prior to maturity

As specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Notes, the holders of Notes are entitled to demand premature repayment of the Notes in case of an Event of Default (see Condition 10) and a Change of Control (see Condition 8). Such premature repayment may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's business, financial condition, results of operations and future prospects and, thereby, on the Issuer's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Notes of such holders of Notes who elect not to exercise their right to get their Notes prematurely repaid as well as the market price and value of such Notes.

In addition, as specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Notes, the Issuer may at any time purchase Notes in any manner and at any price prior to maturity. Only if such purchases are made through a tender offer, such offer must be available to all holders of Notes alike. The Issuer is entitled to resell or nullify the Notes at its discretion. Consequently, a holder of Notes offering Notes to the Issuer in connection with such purchases may not receive the full invested amount. Furthermore, a holder of Notes may not have the possibility to participate in such purchases. The purchases – whether through tender offer or otherwise – may have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's business, financial condition, results of operations and future prospects and, thereby, on the Issuer's ability to fulfill its obligations under the Notes to such holders who do not participate in the purchases as well as the market price and value of such Notes.

Furthermore, in case at least seventy-five (75) per cent of the aggregate nominal principal amount of the Notes has been repaid pursuant to a demand by the holders of Notes based on a Change of Control of the Issuer, the Issuer is entitled to prepay also the remaining outstanding Notes by notifying the holders of Notes of such prepayment. Such early repayment initiated by the Issuer may incur financial losses or damage, among other things, to such holders of Notes who had prepared themselves to have the amount of the Notes invested until the contractual final maturity of the Notes.

The Issuer is not obliged to compensate for withholding tax on the Notes

In the event of withholding taxes are imposed in respect of payments to holders of Notes on amounts due pursuant to the Notes, the Issuer is neither obliged to gross-up or otherwise compensate holders of Notes for the lesser amounts the holders of Notes will receive as a result of the imposition of withholding taxes nor entitled to a premature redemption of the Notes.

Amendments to the Notes bind all holders of Notes

The Terms and Conditions of the Notes may be amended in certain circumstances, with the required consent of a defined majority of the holders of Notes. The Terms and Conditions contain provisions for calling Noteholders' Meetings to resolve on matters affecting the interests of the holders of Notes generally. These provisions permit defined majorities to bind all holders of Notes including holders of Notes who did not participate and vote at the relevant meeting and holders of Notes who voted in a manner contrary to the majority.

Rights to payments that have not been claimed within three years are prescribed

In case any payment under the Notes has not been claimed within three (3) years from the original due date thereof, the right to such payment shall be prescribed. Such prescription may incur financial losses to such holders of Notes who have not claimed payment under the Notes within three (3) years.

The completion of transactions relating to the Notes is reliant on Euroclear Finland's operations and systems

The Notes are issued in the book-entry securities system of Euroclear Finland, and consequently, no physical securities will be issued. The Notes are dematerialized securities and title to the Notes is recorded and transfers of the Notes are affected only through the relevant entries in the book-entry system and registers maintained by Euroclear Finland and its account operators. Therefore, timely and successful completion of transactions relating to the Notes depends on the fact that the book-entry securities system is operational. Any malfunction or delay in the book-entry securities systems or failure by any party to the system may result in the transaction not to take place as expected or to be delayed, which may cause financial losses or damage to the holders of Notes whose rights are depended on the timely and successful completion of the transaction. The Issuer, the Arrangers or any other third party will not assume any responsibility for the timely and full functionality of the book-entry securities system.

During the term-to-maturity of the Notes, Euroclear Finland's systems to process the Notes are likely to be changed materially due to the introduction of the Target 2 securities platform of the European System of Central Banks. Any malfunction or delay in the book-entry securities system or any failure by any relevant party may result in any transaction involving the Notes not taking place as expected or being delayed, which may cause financial losses or damage to the Noteholders whose rights depended on the timely and successful completion of the transaction.

The Company or any other third party will not assume any responsibility for the timely and full functionality of the book-entry securities system. Payments under the Notes will be made in accordance with the laws governing the book-entry securities system, the rules of Euroclear Finland and the Terms and Conditions of the Notes. For purposes of payments under the Notes, it is the responsibility of each investor to maintain with its respective book-entry account operator up to date information on applicable bank accounts.

Should the payment date of interest or principal fall on a date which is not a Business Day (as defined below), the payment of the amount due will be postponed to the next following Business Day. The postponement of the payment date shall not have an impact on the amount payable.

In these Terms and Conditions, "Business Day" shall mean a day on which banks in Helsinki are open for general business and on which the Trans-European Automated Real-Time Gross Settlement Express Transfer (TARGET2) System is open.

8. Change of control

If, after the Issue Date, any person or group of persons acting in concert (as defined below), directly or indirectly, gains Control (as defined below) of the Issuer, the Issuer shall promptly after having become aware thereof notify the holders of Notes (the "Noteholders") of such event in accordance with Condition 13.

Upon occurrence of a change of Control, the Issuer shall, on the Prepayment Date (as defined below), prepay the principal amount of and the interest then accrued on the Notes, but without any premium or penalty, held by the Noteholders who have required prepayment of Notes held by them by a written notice to be given to the Issuer no later than fifteen (15) Business Days before the Prepayment Date. Interest on the Notes accrues until the Prepayment Date (excluding the Prepayment Date).

If Notes representing more than seventy-five (75) per cent. of the aggregate principal amount of the Notes have been prepaid on the Prepayment Date pursuant to this Condition 8, the Issuer is entitled to prepay also the remaining outstanding Notes at their principal amount with accrued interest but without any premium or penalty by notifying the relevant Noteholders in accordance with Condition 13 no later than fifteen (15) Business Days after the Prepayment Date. Such prepayment may be effected at the earliest on the tenth (10th) Business Day and at the latest on the sixtieth (60th) Business Day following the date of publication of such notice.

"acting in concert" means a group of persons who, pursuant to an agreement or understanding (whether formal or informal), actively co-operate, through the acquisition by any of them, either directly or indirectly, of shares in the Issuer, to obtain or consolidate Control of the Issuer;

"Control" means either:

- (a) ownership of shares of the Issuer representing more than 50 per cent. of the total voting rights represented by the shares of the Issuer; or
- (b) capability of appointing the majority of the board of directors of the Issuer.

"Prepayment Date" means the date falling forty-five (45) Business Days after the publication of the notice referred to in the first paragraph of this Condition 8.

9. Negative pledge

So long as any Note remains outstanding, the Issuer shall not, and the Issuer shall procure that none of its subsidiaries (as defined below under Condition 10) will, create any mortgage, charge, lien, pledge or other security interest to secure any other notes or bonds, debentures, debenture stock or loan stock issued after the issuance of the Notes that are capable of being listed on a stock exchange or subject to trading in a regulated market (or create any such security interest to secure any guarantee or indemnity over such notes or other securities), unless the granting of such security interest is required under Finnish law or other law governing such notes or bonds, debentures, debenture stock or loan stock, or unless prior to or simultaneously therewith the Issuer's obligations under the Notes either (a) are secured equally and rateable therewith or (b) have the benefit of such other security interest or other arrangement (whether or not it includes the granting of a security interest) as shall be approved by a resolution of the Noteholders (as referred to in Condition 12 (Noteholders' Meeting)).

10. Events of default

If an Event of Default (as defined below) occurs, any Noteholder may by a written notice to the Issuer declare the outstanding principal amount of such Note together with the interest then accrued on such Note to be prematurely due and payable at the earliest on the tenth (10th) Business Day from the date such notice was received by the Issuer provided that an Event of Default is continuing on the date of receipt of the notice and on the specified early repayment date. An Event of Default is continuing if it has not been remedied or waived. Interest accrues until the early repayment date (excluding the early repayment date).

Each of the following events shall constitute an "Event of Default":

(a) Non-Payment: Any amount of interest on or principal of the Notes has not been paid within five (5) Business Days from the relevant due date, unless the failure to pay is caused by a reason referred to in Condition 14.

(b) Cross-default: Any outstanding Indebtedness (as defined below) of the Issuer or any of its Material Subsidiaries (as defined below) in a minimum amount of fifteen million euros (EUR 15,000,000) or its equivalent in any other currency is accelerated prematurely because of an event of default, howsoever described, or if any such Indebtedness is not repaid on the due date thereof as extended by applicable grace period, if any, or if any security given by the Issuer for any such Indebtedness becomes enforceable by reason of default. A Noteholder shall not be entitled to demand repayment under this sub-Condition (b) if the Issuer has bona fide disputed the existence of the occurrence of an Event of Default under this sub-Condition (b) in the relevant court or in arbitration as long as such dispute has not been finally and adversely adjudicated against the Issuer without any appeal period.

"Indebtedness" means, for the purposes of these terms and conditions, interest bearing debt including guarantees (whether principal, premium, interest or other amounts) in respect of any notes, bonds or other debt securities or any borrowed money of the Issuer or any of its Material Subsidiaries.

- (c) Negative Pledge: The Issuer does not comply with its obligations under Condition 9 (Negative Pledge).
- (d) Cessation of Business: The Issuer ceases to carry on its current business in its entirety.
- (e) Winding-up: An order is made or an effective resolution is passed for the winding-up (in Finnish "selvitystila"), liquidation or dissolution of the Issuer or any of its Material Subsidiaries except for (i) actions which are frivolous (in Finnish "perusteeton") or vexatious (in Finnish "oikeuden väärinkäyttö"), or (ii) in the case of a Material Subsidiary, on a voluntary solvent basis.
- (f) Insolvency: (i) The Issuer or any of its Material Subsidiaries becomes insolvent; (ii) the Issuer or any of its Material Subsidiaries makes a general assignment or an arrangement or composition with or for the benefit of its creditors or (iii) an application is filed for it being subject to bankruptcy or reorganisation proceedings, or for the appointment of an administrator or liquidator of any of the Issuer's or its Material Subsidiaries' assets, save for any such applications that are contested in good faith and discharged, stayed or dismissed within forty-five (45) days.

"Material Subsidiary" means for the purposes of these terms and conditions, at any time, any subsidiary of the Issuer:

- (a) whose net sales (consolidated in the case of a subsidiary which itself has subsidiaries) or whose total assets (consolidated in the case of a subsidiary which itself has subsidiaries) represent not less than ten (10) per cent. of the consolidated net sales or the consolidated total net assets of the Issuer's group (as defined below) taken as a whole, all as calculated by reference to the then most recent financial statements (consolidated or, as the case may be, unconsolidated) of such subsidiary and the then most recent consolidated financial statements of the Issuer's group; or
- (b) to which is transferred the whole or substantially the whole of the sales or assets and undertakings of a subsidiary which, immediately prior to such transfer, was a Material Subsidiary.

Outotec works in close partnership with its customers and provides environmentally sound and energy saving solutions.

As of 1 July 2013 Outotec's business structure consists of two business areas and three geographical regions. The business areas are Metals, Energy & Water and Minerals Processing, and they form Outotec's reportable operating segments according to IFRS 8. The regions are Americas, EMEA (including Europe, Middle East, Africa and CIS countries) and APAC (including Asia Pacific, China and India).

History

Outotec's strong market position and technology leadership are based on the knowledge and experience derived from the operations of two major mining and metals companies: the Outokumpu Group and the former Lurgi Metallurgie GmbH, originating from Metallgesellschaft AG.

In the late 1940s, Outokumpu's scientists and engineers developed a new process of extracting metal from its ore, called flash smelting. The success of flash smelting eventually led to the formation of a technology division within Outokumpu.

The global breakthroughs of flash smelting, flotation and automation technologies led to the establishment of overseas sales offices in Canada, the United States, Mexico and Brazil in the 1970s and in Peru and Chile in the 1980s. Outokumpu Technology's growth and internationalization continued with acquisitions and establishment of further sales offices and competence centers until today.

The acquisition of Lurgi Metallurgie GmbH in 2001 had a major impact on Outotec's portfolio complementing it with technologies for iron processing, alumina calcining, roasting of sulfidic ores and sulfuric acid production technologies.

Outokumpu Technology was organized as a legal consolidated group in 2006. In October 2006 the company was listed as an independent company on the Helsinki Stock Exchange. According to the agreement made with the former parent company Outokumpu Oyj, Outokumpu Technology changed its name to Outotec in April 2007.

Group structure

Outotec Oyj is the parent company of the Outotec group. Outotec was incorporated on 25 September 2006 (as Outokumpu Technology Oyj) and is organized under the laws of Finland. Outotec is domiciled in Espoo, Finland. Outotec Oyj is registered in the Finnish Trade Register under the business identity code 0828105-4. Its registered office is located at Puolikkotie 10, 02230 Espoo, Finland, and its telephone number is +358 20 529 211.

According to Article 2 of its Articles of Association, the Company's line of business is to carry on, by itself or through its subsidiaries, the design, manufacture, construction of and trade in methods, machinery, devices, equipment, spare parts and production facilities for the mining, ore cleaning, metallurgical and other processing industry, metals forming technology, materials technology, energy technology and environmental protection, the production and sale of technical design, project services and research and product development services for the processing industry, energy technology and environmental protection, including any industrial and commercial operations and the sale of business management and consultancy services based on or relating to these activities or know-how acquired in this sphere of activities, as well as the holding and control of domestic and foreign securities, own and control domestic and foreign securities, raise and grant loans, grant securities and give its property in pledge.

As of 1 January 2013, Outotec has adopted the revised standard "IAS 19 – Employee Benefits". Outotec's financial reporting as at and for the six months ended 30 June 2013 is in line with these changes. Financial information as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012 has been restated accordingly. The restated consolidated financial information as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012 has not been audited. The audited consolidated financial statements of Outotec as at and for the year ended 31 December 2012, in which the revised standard "IAS 19 – Employee Benefits" has not been adopted have been incorporated into this Prospectus by reference (see "Information Incorporated by Reference"). The most significant changes relate to the accounting for defined benefit obligations and plan assets. The amendments require the recognition of changes in benefit obligations and in fair value of plan assets when they occur, and hence eliminate the corridor approach permitted under the previous version of IAS 19 and accelerate the recognition of past service costs. The amendments require all actuarial gains and losses to be recognized immediately through other comprehensive income in order for the net pension asset or liability recognized in the consolidated statement of financial position to reflect the full value of the plan deficit or surplus. Amounts recorded in profit or loss are limited to current and past service costs, gains or losses on settlements, and net interest income (expense).

The below table summarizes the effects in the June 2012 and December 2012 financial statements.

No significant changes in financial or trading position

There has been no significant change in the financial or trading position of the Company since 30 June 2013.

Trend information and prospects

Since 31 December 2012, the last day of the financial period in respect of which the most recently audited financial statements of the Company have been prepared, there has been no material adverse change in the prospects of the Company or of the Company and its subsidiaries taken as a whole.

Outotec has published the following estimate of future development in the condensed interim financial statements for the six months ended 30 June 2013:

"Lower growth projections in China and increasing uncertainty in the global economy can lead to continued weakness in metal prices. In the short-term, these matters may cause delays in order placement and suspensions in ongoing projects. Project cost overruns in large greenfield projects are causing the mining and metal companies to seek ways to reduce their investment risks as well as capital and operational spending, optimize cash flows, and focus on increasing the capacity of their existing operations. As a result, the industry's capital expenditure is shifting from large greenfield projects to brownfield modernization and capacity enhancements. However, large project prospects continue to exist in certain markets. Demand for services is expected to remain solid, correlating to the high capacity utilization rates and need to improve operational efficiency. We see good opportunities to continue to grow our services business by further penetrating to the installed base and by leveraging our new services solutions. Project financing continues to be available for solid projects and interest rate levels are expected to stay low. However, there are differences in the market sentiment and financing conditions between regions, companies, and metals.

The market in the Middle East remains positive as the companies have access to competitive energy, and countries in the region are seeking to diversify their economies outside oil and gas industry. Therefore, large greenfield projects in energy-intensive production such as aluminum are being developed. In addition, the fertilizer industry is growing as the Middle East is utilizing local raw materials, including phosphate rock. The market in Africa, particularly in Sub-Saharan areas, remains attractive, especially for energy-efficient, non-ferrous processing solutions. The European market has a vast installed base of all types of mining and metallurgical processing plants, which offer a solid base for services as well as for upgrades improving plant's efficiency and environmental friendliness. In the CIS, the market is expected to continue solid for Outotec's copper, gold, and nickel processing solutions.

The outlook for the Americas region is weak due to the increased hesitance in decision-making. Certain regions in South America are imposing stricter environmental regulations and socioeconomic requirements, thus slowing down project development.

In the APAC region, investments for example in ferrous metals capacity are under development but there is hesitation due to slower growth in China and market slowdown in Australia. Especially in the UK, South America, Southeast Asia and Australia, there is a need for waste-to-energy solutions, where several raw materials can be used to create energy for solving a local waste problem.

The mid-to-long term market outlook for minerals and metals - as well as alternative energy and industrial water treatment - is positive, due to the favorable global megatrends. In minerals and metals processing, new investments are needed, as current production capacity and ongoing investments in new capacity are not sufficient to fulfill long-term demand. In addition, declining ore grades and more complex ores require investments in capacity and advanced technology to enable sufficient recovery of metals. Tightening environmental regulations, increasing energy efficiency requirements, and the scarcity of fresh water also increase the need for sustainable technology. All in all, industrial companies are increasingly focusing on the social and environmental impacts of their operations and thus increasing the demand for sustainable processing technologies. These trends create favorable opportunities for Outotec's life cycle solutions, which provide the best return on the customer's investment with predictable cost, time to market, and process performance reducing the overall risks of the investment.

Financial guidance for 2013 reiterated

Based on the strong order backlog, current market outlook and customer tendering activity, the management expects that in 2013:

- Sales will be approximately EUR 2.1-2.3 billion, and
- Operating profit margin from business operations (excluding one-time items and purchase price allocations (PPA) amortizations) will be approximately 9.5-10.5%."
